Kia Ora, Kia Ako, Kia Tupu

Jacob Dingle for perseverance, integrity, creativity & respect: It is always such a pleasure to have a chat with you, Jacob. Through your close observations of your world, you have wide knowledge and experiences to share you listen to and read wonderful vocabulary and we can see it in the narratives you are writing this term. You are always excited about new learning and activities we are doing in class. You have a great sense of fun but are also very empathetic to others. Thanks for being you, Jacob !

Sam Gregory for perseverance, integrity, respect & creativity: You are such a superstar Sam! I love the way you give everything a go with a positive attitude that inspires and motivates those around you. From entering the gymnastics competition, to beginning interesting classroom discussions, to wearing your hair in plaits to have fun! You are awesome. You have a great group of friends and love playing a variety of sports and games with them. You continue to work hard in all areas of your learning and ask questions when you need more information. Keep being curious and keep being kind.

Aryan Zeeshan for perseverance, integrity, respect & creativity: Aryan has settled well into school over the past six weeks and shows a genuine love for learning and fun. He has a natural affinity for numbers and enjoys taking part in maths activities with confidence.

Aryan contributes thoughtfully to class discussions and can explain his ideas in complete sentences, often linking new learning with his own experiences. He is a positive, engaged learner and a pleasure to have in the class. Kapai to mahi Aryan!

Evalyn Borland for integrity, perseverance & respect: Evalyn, you did such a great job with your writing this week about careers. When I gave you the challenge of describing a random job without using the name of that job, you described what a doctor does and what they might use while sounding out tricky words like stethoscope! Then when it came to doing the same challenge, but with your own career, you did a fantastic job of describing a person who owns a bakery without telling us exactly what they did. It was awesome seeing you practising hard for our gymnastics festival and then trying your best and enjoying yourself today at Tiko.

Keep up the fantastic work Evalyn.

Message from the Principal

Kia ora families and friends,

I hope you all enjoyed the King's Birthday long weekend.

A huge thank you to everyone who came out to support our students at the gymnastics events last week! We are so proud of all our participants for their perseverance, practice and performance on the day. A massive shout-out and congratulations to AJ Innes for taking out 1st place in the Elementary A Girls grade—what an amazing achievement!

This week was all about sustainability! We had the wonderful Neen Kennedy join us to present the important Zero Waste programme. Neen is full of great knowledge and fun ideas, sharing seriously important messages with our students about how to look after our planet. A massive thank you to Neen for bringing such amazing input and energy to our school this week!

Our students are working incredibly hard, practicing their songs, poi, and haka every day in preparation for the Ngati Whai festival. We're putting out a call to everyone—if you'd like to support us in any way, please let us know. Whether it's helping with the costumes/uniforms, behind-the-scenes organisation, or even joining us for a practice or performance, everyone is welcome to lend a hand.

Week nine will see us focus on being Firewise, which is such an important topic. To help keep everyone safe, your children might bring home some fire evacuation plans to complete with you. Fire safety is so important and definitely something worth sitting down as a family to talk through and make a plan for.

Well done to students who are busy completing their Winter Warmer booklets. Remember, Dawn from the library will be at school in coming weeks to collect completed booklets.

Have a fantastic week everyone,

Julie
